Dear Federal Communications Commission;

I am a young viewer of T.V. myself, and I would like to give you my points on ideas about your article.

I feel that there should be more educational and informational programs on T.V.

for our ~~young~~ viewers. Here are my reasons and examples as followed:

My first reason, is that there is too much violence on (cartoons, movies, etc.) everything is based on it or has a little of it in it. For example, the children know what's going on and they want to fight, or quarrel. Like on the cartoons the characters are shot on and forth, but they like. People are not like that, we need to teach them the difference, just in case they cause or get into trouble.

My second reason, is that there is also, too much sex involved in the movies or cartoons. (x-rated)

I hope you will interpret my own judgements stated and my interests towards kids watching junk on T.V. I still will not change my mind, children should be viewing

Dear Secretary Federal Communications Commission:

My name is Dora Tovar. I am eighteen years old, and I am a junior high at Roy Miller High School in Corpus Christi, Texas. I am writing to let you know that I am against violence in T.V. programs. The majority of these programs should be banned from T.V. for the following reasons:

My first reason is the danger with the weapons shown on T.V. programs. For example, reckless driving can influence a child in thinking that type of driving is fun. Guns and knives on T.V. programs are shown to be a way of solving problems, and getting anything they want. Children do not know how to use weapons, and they could imitate them, without know that they would finish their lives.

My second reason is that the majority of the T.V. programs have an aggressive language. Children would learn to say the words without know the definition of them. They could get into a fight with a friend, and say the words they have learned on T.V. People would start to think that is their parents' fault, and they would be right. Parents do not have to let children watch that kind of shows, in that way, their children would have a good education.

My last reason, is that children lose

Dear Federal Communications Commission:

My name is Monica Perez. I am a junior from Roy Miller High School. I live in Corpus Christi, Texas. I feel that there should be more educational programs for children. My first reason, too much violence shown. The second reason, ~~they~~ hours spent watching television can lack doing homework. Third reason, the nudeness that is shown occasionally.

My first reason, too much violence shown. For example, I am get up on a Saturday morning. I turn on the television and ~~there~~ they are showing "Bugs Bunny" and "Daffy Duck" firing at one another with rifles. "Bugs Bunny" and "Daffy Duck" are arguing over duck season and ~~other things~~.

The second reason hours spent watching television can teach doing homework. For instance,

Dear FCC,

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

Get ~~the violence~~ off the air!!!

FCC MAIL ROOM

It's been proven that watching violence influences children's behavior to be more violent. I believe the trash on the air, whether "fun-violence" without blood or the gory kind, is a significant factor in our crime problem. Why do we want to give our children a primer in how to hurt, kill, shoot, & beat others?! Especially of concern is the issue of role models for children on TV.

Most often ^{young} women & children are preyed upon in real life & TV. The helpless & the innocent are victimized by TV violence & we are tainting our children's minds with the belief that Violence is OK & normal.
